Now we suddenly seem to have a sudden change of subject.
Equation E defines a certain classical function $(1/x)_+$, somewhat like $(\log x)_+$ above. Fine.
Then Stak seems to rewrite Equation D as Equation F. Instead of using f', he uses g as the name of the distribution. The next step is exceedingly confusing.